EMI Music Japan Inc. (Japanese: EMIミュージック・ジャパン株式会社, Hepburn: Kabushiki-gaisha EMI Music Japan), formerly Toshiba EMI (EMIミュージック・エンターテイメント株式会社, Toshiba EMI Kabushiki-gaisha), was one of Japan's leading music companies. It became a wholly owned subsidiary of British music company EMI Group Ltd. on June 30, 2007, after Toshiba sold off its previous 45% stake. Its CEO and president was Kazuhiko Koike. When EMI Music Japan was trading as Toshiba-EMI, it was involved with the production of anime. On April 1, 2013, the company became defunct, following its absorption into Universal Music Japan as a sublabel under the name EMI Records Japan.
