An action-packed battle royale game for Android

Free Fire Battlegrounds is a popular survival shooter game, which features an action-packed battle among multiple players. This Android game was one of the first few to focus on a mysterious storyline, where players face each other on a deserted island. You can either play alone or be a part of a squad. To win the game, you need to protect yourself from radiation and enemies.

Multiple customizations, fast-paced sequences, and engaging gameplay

Developed by Garena International, this battle royale game has been able to build a solid community of fans and followers around the world. The action game was released before the hugely popular PUBG Mobile, Fortnite Battle Royale, and Mobile Legends Bang Bang. The action game is distinct, original, and doesn't rip off other titles in this category.

What is the objective of the game?

In this fast-paced survival shooter game, the concept is based on multiplayer gameplay. This means that the game isn't available offline. While playing the game through an online server, you can choose from two different modes. The first one focuses on an island-wide, free-for-all approach. In this version, 40 players face off against each other to win the game. The second one is a bit smaller and makes teams of four players each. The objective remains the same.

How's the gameplay?

Compared to other mobile games, Free Fire Battlegrounds comes with easy-to-use controls. The main player can move in crawl, crouch, and standing positions. The game adopts a partially automatic shoot style, where the target point turns red to let you know about the exact location of the enemy.

The game has multiple safe zones, where you can rest and prevent further damage to your health from the island's radiation. As the game progresses, these zones turn smaller. While the play lasts for just ten minutes, the objective is to conserve your energy till the end.

The battle royale game has limited ammunition, and you need to purchase guns, grenades, and other items to attain more powers. There are also multiple health packs available to keep you going till the end of the game. You can also use 'diamonds' and other in-game objects to purchase cars.

The vehicles and guns are simple to use. The on-screen compass helps you navigate the various moves in this action game. While driving a car, you can't shoot other players. However, you can go on a killing rampage by running them over. While the visuals seem outdated in certain sequences, the background score keeps you hooked.

What about customizations?

Unlike other Android games in this category, this one comes with multiple customization options. In fact, the character customizations keep the game interesting at every step. Most characters don't seem like usual human beings, and some of them even come with pets or certain accessories. As mentioned earlier, you can use 'diamonds' to improve and customize avatars, purchase ammunition, and drive cars through extensive maps.

Unfortunately, the game doesn't come across as a serious survival shooter game. It would rather focus on a fun, cartoonish appearance approach. The ability to change weapons, increase health meters, and drive cars comes with weird graphics.

Having said that, Free Fire Battlegrounds receives new skins, customizations, avatars, and weapons on a regular basis. The development team also organizes special events, promotions, and deals.

Also, some servers in this mobile game are slow. You shouldn't be surprised if you're kicked off one randomly. The game needs quite a few bug fixes, and you'll experience some minor glitches from time to time. Hopefully, future updates will resolve such issues.
