The Japan Rugby Football Union (JRFU; Japanese: ??????????????, romanized: Nippon Ragub? Futtob?ru Ky?kai) is the governing body for rugby union in Japan. It was formed 30 November 1926, and organises matches for the Japan national team.

The JRFU is currently one of only two federations from outside the Six Nations and The Rugby Championship with a seat on the executive council of World Rugby, the sport's international governing body (the other is Rugby Canada). Former Japanese prime minister Yoshir? Mori served as the JRFU's current president until 2015, when Tadashi Okamura took over the position.
