Kumpulan Guthrie (KGB) Berhad, often known as The Guthrie Group, was a Singaporean-Malaysian company that merged with other plantation giants to form Sime Darby Berhad in 2007. The company's primary businesses were oil palm and rubber plantations, alongside property development and manufacturing. After the merger, the company became part of the new entity, and the original Guthrie plantation business eventually re-emerged under the SD Guthrie brand, which is now a leading global sustainable palm oil producer.
