The Tales of Strango the Clown: The Chronicles of Gillygutz 2020 is as strange as the title suggest, and then some. It's a quarantine-filmed green-screen feature that's starring, directed by, and written by Erwin Douglas. Douglas, a former local cable show host, has put together a film that elaborates upon the life and murders of fictional serial killer and comedian on the dark web, Strango. With a shoe-string plot, effects on par with Uganda's cult hit and clip-art megamix Who Killed Captain Alex, there's a strange allure to The Tales of Strango the Clown that makes it more than the sum of its meager parts (though it certainly isn't for everyone).
