In the online business era, where always more stores and companies offer their products and services in a network, the way to launch a commercial activity also evolved. Sometimes, to start an online business, all you need is the right idea and one or more partners with whom you are sharing the same point of view.

So, when your e-commerce is ready to be launched and you took everything into account, here's the problem arising: alright, you have planned to share by 50%, but how will you put it into practice? Who will receive the payment when the first customer purchases one of your products with a credit card? How will it be split based on the commissions you have agreed upon?

If you are already tearing your hair out thinking about checking every single order, a calculator in your hand, and managing all percentages and commissions manually, take a deep breath and read what our YITH Stripe Connect can do for you.

YITH Stripe Connect is the most efficient tool to split payments made on your store by credit cards among your business partners in an automatic and immediate way. Conceived to deal with any possible scenario, the plugin allows the administrator to:
